Community Wildfire Safety Program, Regional Working Groups
(Quarter 3 - 2020)

Feedback Summary

In early July, PG&E began coordination with key stakeholders and local governments across PG&E's five regions (Bay Area, Central Valley, North Coast, Sierra and South Bay/Central Coast) to host the first quarterly working group discussions. These regional working groups are intended to encourage collaboration and provide an opportunity for PG&E and local stakeholders to exchange lessons learned from Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS) events.

The third quarter working sessions were held the week of July 27 and were moderated by PG&E's Division Lead Senior Managers, with support from Local Public Affairs representatives and Public Safety Specialists from each respective region. Meeting topics included regionalization overview and structure, 2020 PSPS improvements, Community Resource Centers (CRCs) and customer support/resources updates, followed by an open discussion.

Each regional working group yielded an average of 24 participants representing a variety of agencies and organizations, including small multi-jurisdictional electric utilities, community choice aggregators, publicly-owned electric utilities, communications and water service providers, California Public Utilities Commission staff, tribal and local government entities, public safety partners, and the disabled, aging and access and functional needs communities (e.g., directors of local Independent Living Centers).

The main objectives of the working groups are to provide a forum for communities impacted by PSPS events and PG&E to share lessons learned, build regional collaboration among key stakeholders and thought leaders and incorporate feedback into future de-energization events.

Examples of feedback we received during our initial working group meetings include:

- Provide low-income and aging communities and residents with cooling centers during PSPS events to accommodate medically related cooling needs;
- Ensure CRC personnel are informed on county ILC information/resources to offer additional support to individuals with access and functional needs;
- Provide PSPS Policies & Procedures document to all regional working group participants;
- Implement mobile CRCs for individuals that are not able to travel to one, as experienced last year; and
- Suggestion for PG&E to create a smartphone application for outage information and notification, as web-based portal has been a challenge to navigate in the past.

As a result of the initial meeting, we are currently incorporating feedback into our PSPS efforts and have already ensured our CRC staff is fully equipped to support those with medical needs and aware of the additional resources made available to these individuals through our California Foundation for Independent Living Centers (CFILC) grant program. We will continue to incorporate feedback into our plans and conduct additional outreach to these audiences to better collaborate on de-energization protocols.

To ensure we are providing a forum that addresses participants needs, following the working group meetings, Division Lead Senior Managers sent all participants a link to complete a six-question survey soliciting suggestions for improvements and topics for discussion in the next quarterly meeting. We are looking to schedule our next regional working group meeting series in early December.

For reference, detailed follow-up items identified during each meeting, along with meeting participant lists, are in the meeting summary forms located in the appendix.
